The Graduate Handbook and University rules define satisfactory progress as follows:

- Graduate students are ordinarily expected to complete at least six credits of coursework each semester in which they are enrolled until all required coursework is completed;
  - Students should have no more than seven deferred or incomplete credits in courses other than thesis or dissertation credit;
  - Students should have filed an approved GradPlan by the beginning of their 2nd year in the graduate program (this is a University requirement);
  - Students should have had their Qualifying Paper approved by the end of 4 semesters in the program and must have made an oral presentation no later than the fifth semester;
  - Students should complete comprehensive exams within 4 years of entering the graduate program;
  - Students should have filed an approved dissertation proposal within 1 year of passing their comprehensive exams;
  - The Ph.D. degree should be completed within 6 years of initial enrollment in the graduate program;
  - The Ph.D. degree should be completed within 3 years of passing comprehensive examinations.
- Ph.D. candidates must have at least a 3.00 grade point average in the degree program;
  - Ph.D. candidates cannot have grades below 3.00 (including N grades in the P-N grading system) in more than two semester courses required by the guidance committee.
